Ike To Return To Hometown By June 4

No Campaign Plans; Taft Backers Claim Move Helps Ohioan

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Allied Powers in Europe (P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed today he aims to be home in Abilene, Kas., by June 4—just 33 days before the Republican national convention.

The White House announced yesterday that at his own request his job as boss of the North Atlantic Treaty forces will end June 1.

Until he leaves, Eisenhower told a news conference, "I am not going to discuss any kind of political questions, so I can devote myself to this job."

He said he hasn't made any definite plans to campaign for the presidential nomination. Clearly, however, the public announcement of the end of his military job gives his well-organized backers the ploy they need to till the political fields.

Eisenhower said he had "not the slightest information" on who his successor as NATO commander might be. A good many other men could fill the post, "possibly far better than I," he said.

He also disclosed he will resign his permanent commission as a five star general if he is nominated to run for president so he would be "free to speak, like any other citizen, on any subject."

But, he said, he will resign only if he is nominated.

Eisenhower said publication of his request to go back on inactive status was delayed because of his desire to break the news himself to the other NATO commanders that he was leaving.

He told these 70 hard-bitten military officials yesterday, shortly

Judge Modifies Tice Injunction

Prosecution Faced On Trailer Court

Judge Joel H. Sharp at a hearing in Common Pleas Court Friday modified the temporary restraining order filed by counsel for Irwin D. Tice, operator of a trailer court at 1311 S. Lincoln Ave., making him again subject to prosecution for violation of a city planning ordinance. City Solicitor W. J. Hunston said today.

Tice was found guilty of violating the ordinance by Mayor Harry M. Vincent April 13, 1951. He was charged with operating a trailer court without obtaining the required signatures of property owners in that vicinity, in accordance with the requirements of the ordinance.

The ordinance specifies that no commercial building can be erected in a section largely residential, without the signatures of two-thirds of the property owners within 250 feet of the lot involved.

Protesting property owners of that area claimed that Tice circulated a petition under false pretenses and thereby set up a trailer court.

After Mayor Vincent heard the case he delayed sentence when defense Attorney H. L. McCarthy requested a new trial. Maximum penalty for the violation is a $50 fine for the first day when Tice was served with a subpoena (March 7, 1951) and possibly each day the business continues in operation after imposition of the sentence.

Defense counsel subsequently obtained a temporary restraining order in Common Pleas Court, prohibiting further prosecution of Tice.

A hearing has been scheduled for Monday in Common Pleas Court to test the constitutionality of the city's planning ordinance. Tice's attorneys contend that the ordinance is unconstitutional in that Salem does not have a general zoning ordinance which would be a prerequisite for the passage of such a prohibitive ordinance.

Union Shop Reported Key Holdup In Steel Settlement

WASHINGTON (P)—The compulsory union membership issue was reported today to be the main stumbling block of both an agreement between the seized steel industry and the government, and between the government and CIO President Philip Murray.

Steel companies themselves apparently could not agree on the union shop issue. This would require all steelworkers to belong to Murray's steelworkers union. Some firms were reported willing to give Murray a modified form of the union shop, others still were holding out against it.

The union's executive board a plain hint from the union that it was not "inexhaustible"—a plain hint from the union that if industry was loath to make a contract, the government should do so if a strike is to be avoided. "The time is overdue," the union's executive board said in a resolution, "for a settlement based on the Wage Stabilization Board's recommendations."

The WSB's proposals, resisted by steel companies, call for a 17½-cent pay boost, the union shop and other benefits estimated by the industry to be worth an extra 8½-cents hourly per worker. The workers now have earnings averaging about $2 an hour.

President Truman's administration, which seized the steel industry last Tuesday, was reported to be perfectly willing to give Murray the WSB's "money" proposals, but unwilling to grant the union shop—a matter frequently criticized in Congress.

With Murray standing fast on the union shop and a full realization of WSB's recommendations, neither the steel industry, as the

Missouri River, At Record Level, Sweeps Plains

Omaha, Sioux City In Muddy Water's Path; Rich Farms Inundated

OMAHA, Nebr. (P)—Tons of muddy water, like a slow moving avalanche, rolled relentlessly at flood levels and higher along nearly 1,000 miles of the Missouri River today.

The unprecedented flood crest, which dealt a smashing blow to the capital city of Pierre at mid-week, still was in South Dakota. It was two days away from Sioux City, Ia., its next major target, and about five days away from the Omaha-Council Bluffs, Ia., metropolitan area some 100 miles below Sioux City.

But already hundreds were homeless even in those downstream areas. Thousands of acres of rich farm land were awash. Damage estimates ran into the millions.

Chance To Stop Flood For Omaha and Council Bluffs, with 366,000 metropolitan area residents, there was just a chance that the worst flood disaster of local record could be averted and the cities were making the most of it. Evacuations and dike strengthening operations hit a feverish tempo in the two cities in anticipation of the historic 30 foot crest expected next Thursday.

Two national guard companies were called out at Omaha.

Army engineers ordered a mighty effort to add at least two feet of added protection along the 23 miles of levee protecting Council Bluffs. The levee height now ranges from 29 to 31 feet.

Other rivers played supporting roles in the tragic flood drama in which at least five midwestern states were cast today but the Missouri played the villainous lead. A newsman who flew over the river in the Sioux City area called it "a boiling, bubbling mass of yellow mud."

In North Dakota, a four foot rise in 24 hours caused the Red River of the North to burst banks along a 150 mile course from Wahpeton to Grand Forks.

Meteorologists predicted a 34 foot crest, about 17 feet over flood stage, in the Fargo area by next Wednesday.

This would equal the second worst flood height in the area's history. Some families already were evacuated.

Army engineers said that from Pierre to Rulo in southern Nebraska, 181,000 acres of land are under water and approximately 125,000 head of livestock have been evacuated.

Whole towns, located on Iowa flatlands adjacent to the Missouri, were abandoned. Modale was a virtual ghost town.

Blencoe was being evacuated and Mondamin appeared doomed.

Phone Pickets Take Time Off For Church

Air Force To Ground 1,000 Officers; 6 Refuse To Fly

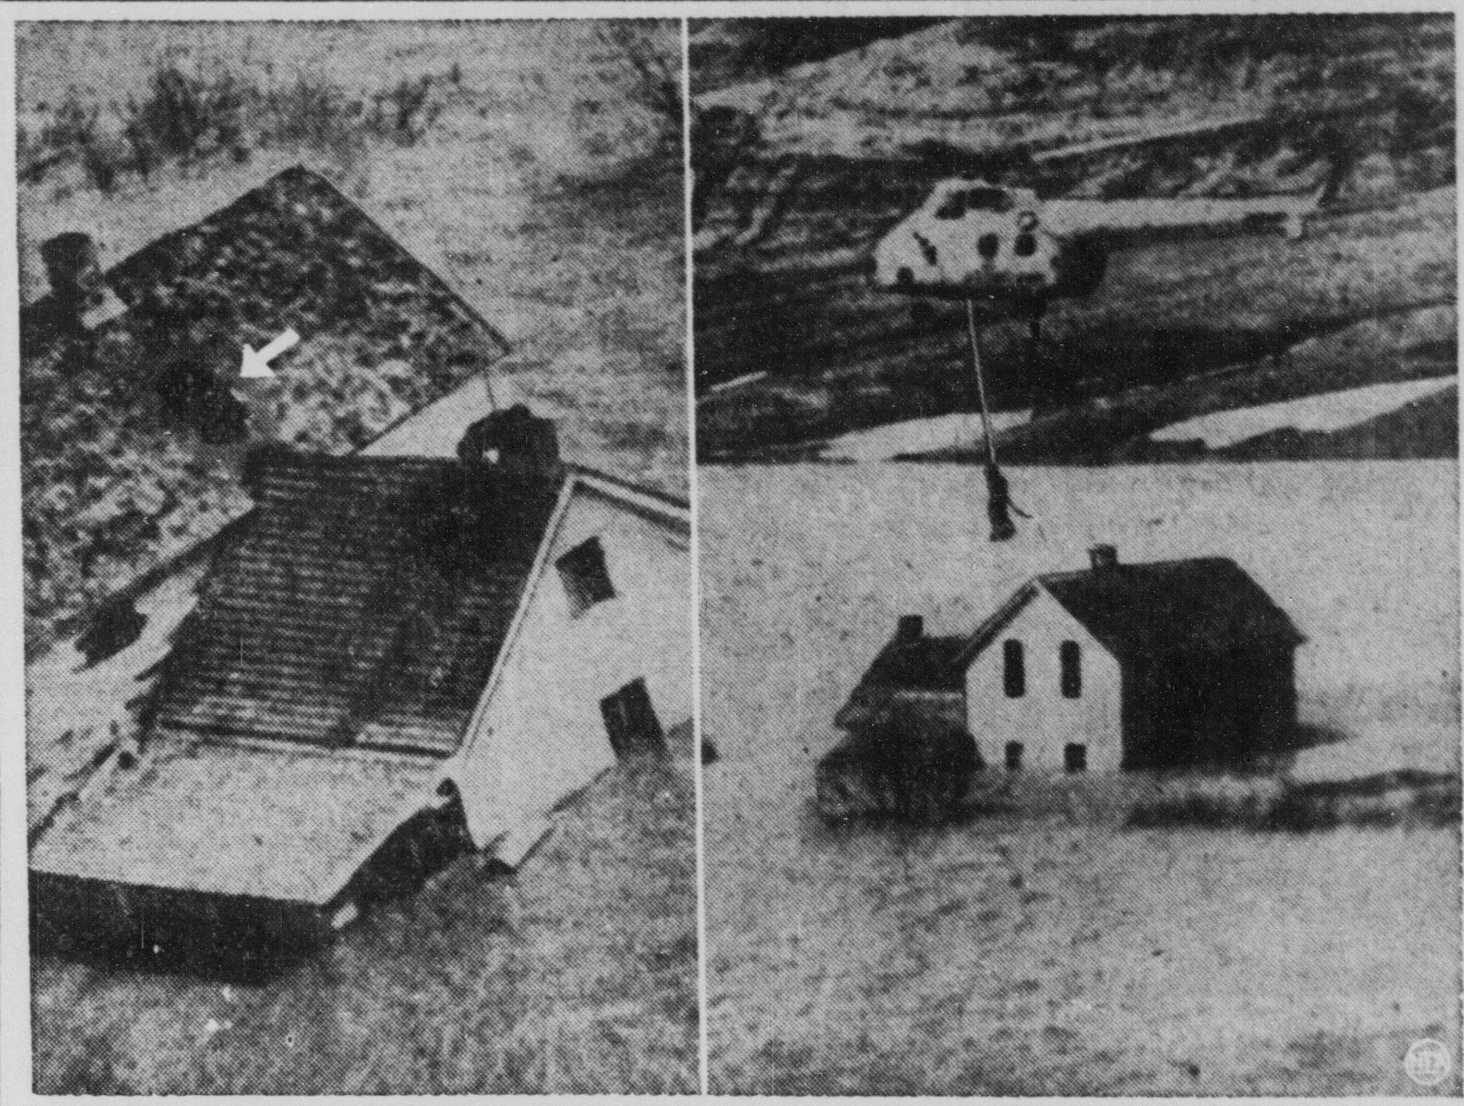

WASHINGTON (P)—The Air Force probably will ground more than 1,000 flying officers this fiscal year, but only a handful of refusal to fly—the reason for a small-scale mutiny of six airmen at San Antonio.

Most will be taken from flying status, Air Force spokesmen said, for medical reasons—lack of flight proficiency or, particularly among older men, lack of physical fitness. They said 734 officers were removed from flying status during the first half of the fiscal year. Only a small percentage of the total—expected to top 1,000 by year's end on June 30—would be removed because of refusals to fly or requests to be grounded, they emphasized.

The six lieutenants at Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, who refused to fly included a pilot who said it made his wife "a nervous wreck," two bombardiers, two navigators and a radar operator. The six have been on a no-flying strike since April 1. Officers at Randolph, the nation's biggest air force center, declined to say why, reporting only that the cases were under investigation.

Ike Successor Choice Narrows

Gruenther, Ridgway Seen Top Candidates

WASHINGTON (P)—The Pentagon today began preparing for a presidential request that it recommend a successor to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as top European commander, with the choice apparently narrowed down to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

Technically Gen. Eisenhower's successor could come from any of the armed services, but the prospects are he will be an army man and possibly either Ridgway, supreme commander of the United Nations forces in Japan and Korea—chosen by President Truman when he ousted Gen. Douglas MacArthur—or Gruenther, Eisenhower's present chief of staff.

The Defense Department's current behind-the-scenes move to recommend an officer for supreme command of the Allied powers in Europe can be neither open nor official until requests come from:

1. The council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to Truman, asking him to name an American to succeed the present American supreme commander.

2. A request from the White House for advice on whom to nominate in answer to the council's request (The council meets in Paris on April 21).

The generally accepted idea here was that the council again would ask for an American.

There was much sentiment apparent in the Pentagon for Ridgway, veteran of combat commands in World War II European campaigning.

9 Indictments Are Returned

Jury Holds Harr For Slaying At Lisbon

Nine indictments, including a second degree murder charge, were returned by the Columbiana County Grand Jury when it reported its findings to Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp Friday afternoon.

The jury, in session since Tuesday, ignored two cases, left two indictments secret and combined another case.

The jurors declined to study the lack of a county jail. The county jail at Lisbon was torn down in 1939 and almost every jury since then has recommended that a new one be built.

Sylvester M. Harr, 20, of Lisbon, was indicted for second degree murder in the slaying of Mike Zlatar, 70, of near Lisbon Jan. 14. Zlatar was beaten to death during an argument in his home.

Others indicted include: Bernard A. Wright, 20, of Salem; larceny of the Eagles lodge at Columbiana, North Heights Dairy in East Palestine, Loudon Motor Sales of Hanoverton and Shingler jewelry store in Wellsville. Two companions have been sentenced for complicity in the crimes.

Kenneth Eugene Grant, 21, of Salineville, robbery of an East Liverpool home March 6 and robbery of a motorist.

Robert A. Snowden, 18, of Pittsburgh, theft of a car March 5 at East Liverpool.

Franklin B. Schmidt of Wellsville and George W. Sims of Irondale, theft of scrap iron Feb. 8 from S. Caplan Co.

Jack Rummel, 26, of Lisbon, rape of a 14-year-old Lisbon girl Oct. 1, 1951.

Rex Downer of East Liverpool, non-support.

Defendants will be arraigned in court for pre-trial hearings April 21.

The jurors ignored a charge against the North Georgetown Legion Post No. 574 of displaying gambling devices and also dropped a charge of issuing a fraudulent check against Joseph DeSarro of Wellsville.

Union Meets To Discuss Showdown Move

Ohio Bell Company Optimistic On Talks Toward Settlement

WASHINGTON (P)—Top officials of the CIO Communications Workers union were summoned to a sudden meeting today to discuss the possibility of calling a nationwide telephone strike.

It would be aimed at forcing the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. to come to terms with about 43,000 striking Bell Telephone workers in three states and 16,000 Western Electric workers in 43 states.

The five-day walkout already has reduced service in the 43 states, with some 200,000 non-striking workers refusing to cross picket lines thrown up around Bell Telephone exchanges. Western Electric is a manufacturing subsidiary of A. T. and T., which also controls Bell.

To Consider Showdown

Joseph A. Beirne, union president called the session here to consider a full-fledged showdown. "Even though we have settled our strike against the Michigan Bell Company, Western Electric picket lines will remain up in that state and elsewhere across the country," he said.

This was taken to mean Michigan Bell workers would not cross the Western Electric picket lines. Beirne pointed out that telephone workers still are on strike in Ohio, Northern California and New Jersey.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. and striking CIO Communications Workers resumed negotiations today on a note of optimism by a company spokesman.

The negotiators recessed shortly before midnight, and the spokesman reported:

Talks Progressing "The talks are progressing. The company feels an agreement is possible within a reasonable period of time."

Union officials said terms which ended a similar strike in Michigan would be used as a basis for a new Ohio contract.

Michigan's shutdown was settled yesterday on the basis of a 12.7-cent hourly pay hike instead of the 23 cents the union demanded. Beirne said this settlement would be used as a general pattern in the other disputes.

Failure to get such agreements, he said, would result in an intensification of the strike over the weekend.

Ohio Bell said it felt the Michigan settlement would "be a basis for agreement" with its 12,000 striking workers. But Ernest Weaver, head of the union's New York district, called the pay hike "way too low." If anything, he added, the picket lines in Michigan would be "intensified."

Attack Injunctions

The union attacked anti-picketing court injunctions it said were obtained by the Bell system in 145 cities—particularly those in Alabama, Florida, Mississippi and Tennessee. It protested that one injunction covering 40 Alabama cities not only forbids picketing but prohibits union meetings.

Beirne, in a statement today, called the injunction "a vicious strike-breaking conspiracy between state officials and Bell system." He said they would be fought "clear up to the Supreme Court, if necessary."

Generally, the strike did not halt service but slowed some operator calls. Dial service was reported nearly normal.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Blessed Are They That Die In The Lord

The longer I live and observe human and eternal events, as my profession as a minister gives me opportunity to do, the more certain I am that death is not the end of life. It is my belief, based on very substantial experience, that the state of existence which we call death is merely an enlarged continuation of life.

The statement "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord" is an affirmation of the indestructibility of human life. The fact that we cannot see the departed does not in any sense indicate their annihilation. Stewart Edward White gives a graphic and compelling illustration. The blades of an electric fan when stationary are thick and you cannot see through them. Start the fan at high speed and they revolve so rapidly that you can see through them. Our inability to see across the line into the other world may be due to the higher frequency of the spiritual life. Occasionally we have intimations of life on the other side.

This is because that life breaks through to us, or in sensitive moments we are able to perceive with greater accuracy and insight. To change the figure, the curtain between this world and the next is very thin at points and under certain conditions. Events which illustrate this do not happen often, but they do occur with sufficient frequency and force to attest their validity.

IF I MAY USE an intimate personal experience . . . My mother died at the family home in New York State. I was in New York City at the time. My wife, who was with my mother at the time, telephoned me the heartbreaking news. Naturally I was deeply distressed. I stood looking out from my office toward Fifth Avenue and my hands chanced to rest upon a Bible lying on the desk. As I stood there, I had the unmistakable feeling that two cupped hands rested lightly upon my head. The touch was as light as eiderdown and lasted only for a flashing moment. However, it was distinct and unmistakably real.

Being of a scientific cast of mind I began to consider the experience, comforting as it was, in terms of the possibility of its being an hallucination caused by my intense grief. But after exploring the matter from all sides, both at the time and later, I have an unmistakable and undiminished conviction that my mother was with me and, from the spirit world, touched me in a manner that reflected itself as a slight brushing of my person.

I was reminded of the beautiful lines of Robert Ingersoll, who, standing by the casket of his deceased wife, said:

er morning. The breakfast is for the church young people and their friends. Reservations have been made previously.

At a recent meeting of the Geneva Youth Fellowship in Warren Mrs. Arthur Votaw was named treasurer for the Mahoning Presbytery group.

retary of the state Christian Endeavor, will attend, according to Randall Black, county president.

"THIS WATER IS HARDER THAN A MONEY SHARK'S HEART!"

A newcomer to Salem made the above remark. Well, nature doesn't always give us 100% of the best things. It's here, some of the hardest water to be found anywhere, but it doesn't follow that we should take it lying down. If you are sick and tired of foggy-looking silverware and glassware, and irritated by the short life of things you wash every week, and mad as a wet hen at the condition of your hands, here is relief, instant relief.

You simply pick up your phone and dial 6717 and say, "Count me in on the test! I want to see for myself if your claims will stand up." In a matter of hours we will install a water softener and show you how to end forever your hatred of water, the hard unfriendly kind you are bedeviled with here. Salem's First Newspaper Came Off Press 110 Years Ago Today

By PEARL WALKER

One hundred and ten years ago today — April 12, 1842, the first edition of The Village Register was printed here by Benjamin B. Davis and Joshua Hart, publishers. It was edited by a committee composed of Benjamin Hawley, James Eggman, John Harris and John Campbell. However, records fail to show where the plant was located.

This first paper gives an interesting description of the village of Salem at that time. The population 110 years ago was given as more than 1,000, which shows that this city's growth has been slow since it has taken more than 110 years to reach the present population, 12,754, as recorded in the 1950 census.

That the villagers were interested in religion and education is evidenced by the fact that there were six churches and five schools

Four doctors cared for the sick and there was one dentist to pull and repair teeth. Three attorneys looked after the legal status of the residents and one of the two woolen mills furnished employment for 40 men.

There were 13 stores, including "seven drug shops" and groceries, also three taverns.

This village was a very busy place, judging from its many establishments. Among them were one tin shop, one watchmaker's shop, two leather and seven tailor shops, one coverlet weaver and one stocking weaver. Other shops mentioned were four cabinetmakers, nine boot and shoes, five coachmakers', one copper, one mowing machine, and saddle and harnessmakers.

Nearly 30 men were engaged in carpentry and there were two chairmakers. The village had one foundry, established in 1842 by Thomas Sharp, carpenter and millwright, for the purpose of manufacturing steamengines. Mr. Sharp constructed Salem's first engine made for sale. The castings for the engine were brought here in wagons from Cleveland.

Photography was one of the wonders of 1842, according to an item which appeared in the June 14, 1842, issue of the Register. It reads as follows:

"There is now at Greiner's tavern, across the way from our office, an opportunity of seeing the remarkable and mysterious process of taking mysterious likenesses by the reflection of light. It is called daguerreotype for its inventor, Daguerre. William Rakestraw is the young man who has the apparatus and we have seen several drawings. For accuracy and close resemblance they can scarcely be surpassed."

The Register was later known as the Homestead Journal and the Salem Republican.

Rogert G. Lee is reputed to have published the first newspaper here in March, 1825, called the Salem Gazette and Public Advertiser. It was printed in a log building. Historians say, "It was Democratic in politics, of fair respectability and reasonable in enterprise." Some of the other early papers were, The Salem Visitor, Anti-Slavery Bugle, Salem Journal, Salem Era and the eNational Greenback.

The Salem News, which has been serving the people of their district for 63 years, was established by J. W. Northrop and taken over by The Salem Publishing Company. On Nov. 24, 1894, the late Louis H. Brush purchased the controlling interest in this company. Mr. Brush was president, treasurer and manager, and the late Dr. T. T. Church was secretary. This company also published the Republican Era, a weekly, which was discontinued in the early 1900's, and it absorbed The Daily Herald (Democrat) which was established here May 12, 1891, by D. D. Kirby. George H. Gee was editor for a number of years. The News is now one of the Brush-Moore newspapers.

Mullinaires To Give Easter Broadcast

The Mullinaires, male chorus of Mullins Manufacturing Corp., will dedicate a radio program of religious music to the residents of the Mahoning Valley over station WKBN at 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

The performance is one of the few to be developed by the Mullins group especially for radio and is designed to contribute to the religious activities of the day. Guest on the program will be Miss Beverly Dame, lyric soprano of Cleveland. Miss Dame has made numerous appearances on the opera and concert stage and has taken part in television shows.

The Mullinaires are composed of factory and office men of the Mullins organizations in Salem and Warren. They are under the direction of Dr. Carl Scheig, director of music in the Warren public schools. Accompanist is Thomas Crothers, director of music in Salem High School. The chorus was formed about four years ago and has since made numerous appearances.

The Birthday OF HOPE

This thing we call hope—it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast . . . and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man cling to his hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His body. Came sorrowing . . . without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen . . ."

That was the birthday of Hope . . . the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours . . .

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Eternal Easter

The happiest of all coincidences combined the great Christian holiday of Easter with the advent of spring in the northern hemisphere.

It has given the Resurrection a significance which can be understood by even the most casual followers in the footsteps of the Man of Galilee.

More than that, it has given his followers an eternal Easter to mark the stirring climax of a life whose example has had greater effect on mankind than any other single event in the last two thousand years.

Before Christ, there had been a pagan festival of Easter—a recognition of a miracle in nature which produced flowers, sunshine and new leaves.

But what originally was only an occasion in the natural cycle became a far greater occasion in the cycle of human life after the Crucifixion and the Resurrection.

Only then could men begin to know what infinite potentialities of growth and compassion lay buried in their souls. Only then did Easter become the Resurrection of what was finest in men as well as what was finest in nature.

When The Sun Stood Still

It would be unfair to unorganized optimists to ignore the American Farm Bureau Federation's recommendation for a $156 million cut in federal payments to farmers.

In the great game of wangling money from Washington, this is unheard-of advice from the wangles to the wangles who so dearly love to be wangled. As might be expected, they are resisting the Farm Bureau proposal.

But the spokesman for the Farm Bureau, Allen B. Kline, is firmly of the opinion that the $256½ million appropriation asked by President Truman in his budget recommendations is $156 million more than is needed.

Speaking for the members of his organization, Kline says it would be better to balance the budget than ladle out unnecessary gravy.

Most newspapers paid little attention to this precedent-shaking position, possibly because their editors suspected a practical joke. Apparently it wasn't. Apparently, the president of a large organization of farmers really believes they don't need or want as much gravy as the politicians want to give them.

Can any other minority in the United States make the same statement about the gravy it is trying to wangle from Washington?

Resignation Overdue

One of the strange bedfellows of politics at the moment is Ohio's Charles Sawyer sacked up with the federal bureaucrats and union bosses who would like to seize the steel industry permanently.

As secretary of commerce in Harry Truman's cabinet since May, 1948, Sawyer has been conciliator to free enterprise. When it's recalled that Mr. Truman's first secretary of commerce was Henry Wallace, a holdover from Roosevelt, Mr. Sawyer's symbolic importance is evident.

He, himself, is a kind of Horatio Alger story, a fellow who represents everything Socialists and Communists despise. As far as moderate Democrats are concerned, Sawyer has been a relic of moderation in the Truman Fair Deal.

But when the time comes to give the steel industry the Fair Deal treatment, then seize it for putting up a squawk. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer is placed in charge. Under these circumstances, a man who sold some three years ago to American Iron and Steel Institute that a government official "should hesitate to force his personal economic views upon any part of our business activity" had better resign, and clear his conscience.

On another occasion, Mr. Sawyer said: "Any man who must look up his code of ethics to find out what is proper or improper for him to do is too innocent to be around Washington."

How innocent are you, Mr. Secretary?

Suggestion Box

If the reason President Truman and his administration are skittish about using the Taft-Hartley Act to avert a steel strike is because they don't like Sen. Taft, there is an easy way.

They can call it the Labor-Management Relations Act, which is its proper title. And they can quote the declaration of policy contained in the act.

This reads in part:

"... to provide orderly and peaceful procedures for preventing the interference by either (employers or employees) with the legitimate rights of the other, to protect the rights of individual employees in their relations with labor organizations whose activities affect commerce, to define and proscribe practices on the part of labor and management which affects commerce and are inimical to the general welfare, and to protect the rights of the public in connection with labor disputes affecting commerce."

Labor-Management

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Coercion Dominates Government Intrusion

Coercion is now the dominant note of government policy in the economic world. The days when disputes and differences of opinion were submitted to the voluntary action of the parties, especially in the labor field, seem to have passed.

Since the establishment of government tribunals to decide disputes or even merely to "recommend" a settlement, the process of collective bargaining has been brushed aside.

That's the basic reason for the fact that today the railroads and the steel companies are in the hands of the government, and neither the owners nor the workers are happy.

The fundamental mistake was made when powers of negotiation were turned over to a Wage Stabilization Board. As long as there is some government board at the end of the road in a controversy over wages or working rules, the unions feel that they can do better by waiting for the government boards of panels to report.

ONE REASON, of course, is that President Truman has never pretended to be impartial about the personnel he appoints to his various labor boards. He makes sure they are pro-union. When Mr. Truman appointed Charles E. Wilson as director of economic mobilization, with power over wages as well as prices, labor-union leaders balked. They refused to participate. Mr. Truman didn't surrender immediately but in due time he gave the labor leaders what they wanted—a new personnel in the defense setup and an order that the Wage Stabilization Board didn't have to report to Mr. Wilson.

The pay-off for that procedure came in the steel dispute. Mr. Wilson found himself powerless to intervene, so he resigned. He was innocent enough to rely on President Truman's assurance that his powers would not be clipped. He should have resigned months ago when the labor leaders walked out on him and when Mr. Truman shuffled the procedures.

When Congress enacted the Taft-Hartley law to govern labor-management relations, it stressed and required collective bargaining. It provided an orderly procedure and a method of dealing with disputes when they go to extremes. But Mr. Truman disregarded that law the moment Congress gave him power to set up wage and price boards in the "emergency."

Congress is as much at fault for the present situation as is the President. For Congress gave a blanket delegation of authority to set up a wage stabilization board out of which came the usurped power to settle disputes.

If Congress hasn't learned its lesson by now and, in extending the present law, amendments are not inserted to keep the wage Stabilization Board out of the labor-dispute machinery, the members of both parties in the house and the senate who acquiesce will become responsible for the further confusion that inevitably will result.

THE LATE President Roosevelt muffed the ball when, after appointing a presidential board in a railroad-labor dispute, he deviated from its recommendations and settled the controversy. That deviation encouraged further pressures for presidential intervention in subsequent years.

Today the railroads are being operated by the government. Seizure is being fought in the courts by the rail unions just as vigorously as the steel companies are fighting the sudden taking over of their properties. The difference in the two cases is an embarrassing one for the President. In the case of the railroad unions, Mr. Truman isn't allowing any negotiation to be carried on that departs from the things both parties had agreed upon before seizure. In the case of the steel dispute, he is encouraging negotiation and presumably will approve a settlement that differs from that of his own board.

THE NET OF IT ALL is that presidentially appointed boards do more harm than good in the field of labor relations. There is, of course, a place for fact-finding tribunals which, if impartially chosen, can come in with a comprehensive report on facts but without recommendations. Once the facts are established and made public without such distortions or misrepresentations of the facts as were handed Mr. Truman by his advisers to insert in his radio speech Tuesday night, the American people—and this includes the stockholders of the companies concerned as well as the rank and file of the unions—can quickly tell who is right or wrong.

If there were more reliance on volition and the simple processes of reason and voluntarism and less reliance on coercion, there would be a different story to tell about labor-management relations in America today.

That Old Sparkle

By TRUMAN TWILL

A thought in passing is that more effort is going to be applied to spring housecleaning this year than to all the major problems of the world combined.

Getting rid of the winter's accumulation of dirt won't give rise to any news bulletins, but when the job's done there will be more satisfaction to the square inch than will be forthcoming from any other source, including Washington.

It is a momentous project, this thing of keeping clean. The only time it makes news is when some befuddled recluse quits trying and finally comes to a drab end in a houseful of grime, litter and filth. But it's news, nevertheless.

Housecleaning is not what it used to be. Nothing is. But there's enough resemblance to jog the memories of everyone old enough to remember what housecleaning used to be.

Gone forever and good riddance is the practice of beating all the carpets until a resounding whack no longer raised a puff of dust. But nothing has happened to the odor of woodwork freshly washed down with a cleaning compound.

There isn't as much curtain-stretching as there used to be. But nothing has happened to the traditional window polishing, except the trade names of the substances used to achieve that much-to-be-desired sparkle.

Vacuum cleaners, furnace filters and the growing aversion of the female of the species to back-breaking toil have taken the edge off what used to be a dreaded event.

But an unobservant male still can come home after a hard day and throw himself down on the floor where the sofa stood that morning. He can still lose his entire supply of socks through no fault of his own.

And nothing has happened to wallpaper cleaner and stepladders. Moreover, nothing has happened to women who believe men are ideally suited to risk their necks by cleaning ceilings.

Paint companies still know how to sell their products when the market is lively, which is on or about the same time the birds are laying their colored eggs, too.

When it's all over, which is never a minute too soon, cleanliness has been bought at a dear price in human labor. But the ordeal is borne with patience and even with humor because cleanliness is one of the fundamental obligations of being civilized. It is possible to be dirty and like it. It is possible under some circumstances to be slovenly and not be penalized for it. But it is not possible to do these things without imposing undue strain on tolerance and esteem.

While there is spring housecleaning there is hope. It represents an instinct in men that is as fundamental as the instincts which make frogs sing in the marshes and ducks lay eggs when the temperature rises.

It is proof that the life which goes on in spite of all the blunders which interfere with its highest potentialities is stronger than all the blunders and their upside-down schemes. In brief, lady of the house, the man of the house has no objections. Let's get it. The quicker it's started, the quicker it's finished.

Expert tea tasters can identify between 1500 and 1600 different teas, telling where each is grown, what variety it is, what season of the year it was picked, how it was processed, how much it should cost and how it should be blended.

The Holy Week—1952

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Without regard to politics, economics, strikes, public relations or the glamor of the important, the rhythm of the universe moves its way unerring. The years pass and new ones come without the slightest regard to whether it is an election year or a solar year or a lunar year, or who is President of the United States. The rhythm asserts itself through good or troubled times. The rhythm is eternal.

And so comes the Holy Week. Often it is sacred to Jew and Christian alike when their holy days overlap; but even when the decisions of men separate them, they are close together in time and spirit. For the Passover of the Jews and the Easter of the Christians have come regularly during all these thousand of years. They are of the rhythm of life in our western civilization. Some institutions never die no matter what else happens upon the earth.

THE RELIGIONS of God have often been assailed but they survive. Curiously, their survival is hard to explain because so often their very promises seem to be bandrupted by the events of the times. But they do survive. They have existed as far back as we can go in history of man—in one form or another, but always seeming the same in spite of obvious differences.

Passover is the holiday of liberty; Easter is the holiday of Resurrection. Ignoring for the moment the differences between the religious expressions of Jew and Christian, in the reawakening of the life-rhythm of spring is the witnessing of the permanence of the Divine Intelligence which never fails, which moves unerringly in the same direction, controlling the same forces, producing the same phenomena.

There is an economy in nature; nothing is lost; nothing is long dead; perhaps nothing dies. For all the evidence about us tells of the Resurrection. Everything is renewed; everything re-exists.

Think of this single phenomenon: tons of silt and waste pour into the ocean, to be drowned in its saline waters, lost to man forever. But nothing is lost forever. It is only lost as long as man disbelieves in the Divine Intelligence. For when man believes that nothing really dies, he puts pumps to work and soon from the ocean are rescued minerals and chemicals and great wealth. Magnesium is but one evidence that in God's world nothing can truly be lost.

AND SO, WE TURN from the concept of Easter to the great lesson of the Passover—that slavery is evil; that liberty is good; that liberty is for the individual. From Joseph to Moses is a tale of the slow obliteration of human liberty by government. So, here too the pendulum swings in a rhythm—an historic rhythm.

Man is free. He is free because his Creator endowed him with inalienable rights and among those rights is the liberty to form the pattern of his own life. But soon troubled times beset him—some of his own making; some produced by the forces of nature or man's inability to understand nature. Wars and politics, economic fallacies, droughts and floods, the mighty deceits of statesmen and the perversion of human intelligence lead to troubled times.

It is then, that man seeks a master, a ruler, a king, a dictator, a new way of life. And in his cry for protection, he forsakes liberty and enters upon a period of physical and spiritual suffering. Soon most men become slaves and those who master man live upon him and eat him out of house and home. Then, the descendants of those who moved into slavery rebel against their masters and reassert human liberty. For this can be said: liberty, the yearning for liberty, the belief in liberty never dies; it was given to man by God at birth in the qualities of will and personality and reason.

AND AS nothing that is good can die, so liberty cannot die. After every troubled time, comes a struggle for liberty and then a marvelous upsurge of the human genius. It is a resurrection in a sense; it is the movement of a guided rhythm within the Divine Intelligence.

And so when Passover and Easter are upon us, we come closer to God, each in his own way. And in these troubled times, it is good to feel, like a zephyr on a blistering summer's day, that the spirit of God is close to us and that we are praying to be remembered and loved.

Health To You

Questions for the Doctor

The doctor advises about blinking of eyes, a nervous disorder. The questions include:

Q—My little boy, five years old, has developed a habit of blinking his eyes every short while. Is this a nervous condition, and what can be done for it?—F.B.

A—This certainly sounds like a nervous condition, closely related to what is known as "tic" or habit spasm. He should be kept as calm as possible and his attention should not be drawn to this habit. His pediatrician should know about it, and there is a fairly good chance that he will outgrow it.

Q—Can sleeping on the left side affect the heart? I happen to be on the heavy side and have often thought that lying on that side puts pressure on the heart.—S.K.

A—Sleeping on the left side will not produce heart disease, but it could cause some crowding or pressure on the heart if that organ were enlarged. If it is comfortable lying on the left side, the probabilities are that it does no harm.

Q—I have had a nervous heart for many years. Could this bring on a heart attack?—Mrs. H. W.

A—It is hard to tell just what is meant by a "nervous heart." This, in itself, is not a serious heart disease, and would not be likely to bring on a heart attack or coronary thrombosis.

Q—Will a crooked bone in the nose cause serious trouble to breathing?—Mrs. C. R.

A—It can very well obstruct one of the nostrils so that breathing is more difficult. If the symptoms are very severe, one has to consider an operation to straighten the septum in the nose.

Q—Is it possible for a woman to go through the change of life in the twenties or early thirties because of an operation on the female organs?—Mrs. A.

Folsom Man is known to have inhabited North America about 25,000 years ago, and it is possible the continent was inhabited long before that time.

A—If both ovaries are removed by operation, there will be a premature menopause.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

We have that Sunday coming up on which a lot of people go to church in order to be seen coming out.

They don't always know the pastor but they know the picture possibilities.

I'm told one society woman went to three different churches last Easter and missed the photographers at each one.

Asked if she knew the significance of Easter she said "I certainly do. I'm ruined with my set for the next year."

But there are still a lot of people who see more to Easter than new hats, colored eggs and little bunny rabbits.

They're the same persistent people who insist on getting more into Christmas than Santa Claus, sleigh bells and tinsel.

Maybe they are old-fashioned but somehow they go on thinking that God and His Son are important to the Birth and the Resurrection.

BIBLE QUOTATION

Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found in him in peace, without spot, and blameless.—II Peter 3:14.

Easter Parade

By HAL BOYLE

Who Cares What Males Wear?

NEW YORK

It is no secret that the prestige of the male in America has been on the toboggan for some time.

But modern masculinity sinks to new depths during the Easter parade.

What part does a man play today in this annual outdoor fashion show?

He is about as anonymous as a sardine in the sea. Who cares what he wears? Nobody. If he showed up clad only in his birthday suit, who would notice him? Nobody. All eyes are on the ladies, who have turned the Easter parade into a marching demonstration of womanhood triumphant.

This is the hour of feminine power, and every woman knows it. She puts on her prettiest feathers and struts the streets in peacock pride. What is that drab thing that mopes along by her side? Well, it used to be a man.

BUT A MAN is no longer a man in the Easter parade. He is a strolling slave to his queen, a dun lackey, a kind of walking watchfob. If he dressed properly for the spirit of the occasion, he would wear a ring through his nose.

It wasn't that way of yore. Your cavalier of yesteryear was a match for Mama in every way during the Easter parade. If she wore silk, he matched her in satin. He wore a bunch of lace at his throat and a bright sword dangled from his side.

HE WAS the strutting equal of his lady in every respect, a colorful figure who stirred the pulses of onlookers with his knightly bearing. Even 50 years ago the newspapers described in great detail the Easter outfits of the dandies of the time. What Reggie Van Swager wore was almost as much public interest as the new dress that tempted Mrs. Astorbill.

But since then men, to the growing dismay of custom tailors, have become steadily less important in the world of Easter fashions. A man could show up wearing a poodle haircut and walking on all fours like a dog, but nobody would pay him any never mind. They would just look to see what the lady he escorted was wearing.

YES, PAPA is a complete nonentity at Eastertide. The family budget can only afford finery for one—and that one is Mama. She has won the victory of equal rights.

About all the average man can afford to buy for the big style event is a pair of robin's egg blue socks and a dashing set of new cufflinks.

How long is this going to go on? In some male breasts the seed of rebellion has already been sown. Some year the men of America are going to hold a mass boycott of the Easter parade.

"I am tired of being an overlooked scarecrow," Papa will tell Mama. "You go walk by yourself. I'm going to pull down the window shades, take off my shoes and stay home and look at television."

If men just had the courage to do that once, women would figure out a way to re-equip the man of the house with a few fine feathers and let him share the parade spotlight again. For if there is anything a woman hates, it is to get all dressed up for Easter—and have to go out alone.

Joe DiMaggio Worried About TV Program

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK — Joe DiMaggio is worried! And all over a little thing called television.

He's acting like a guy who has just been asked to face Bob Feller without a bat. He's like the nervous bridegroom who misplaced the ring.

"I'm really worried," DiMaggio began as he sat down to a cup of coffee in his hotel suite off Fifth Ave. "This television wasn't made for me. I've been fed baseball all these years but now I've got to do the feeding."

DiMaggio, in case you've forgotten, has retired after 13 years as a ballplayer with the Yankees. But he's still with the Yankees as a pre-game and post-game TV announcer. In other words he's taking the spot formerly held by Dizzy Dean — and that's not easy. Dean never is at a loss for words. DiMaggio is just the opposite because of his modesty.

"THE PAY'S GOOD," DiMaggio continued. "Getting $50,000 a year. I'll only be working half as hard. And when the Yankees go on the road I can go off on trips, maybe home to California for a week or on a fishing trip. And I'll be able to sleep a bit longer in the morning."

"But I'm worried. I don't know what to say. Maybe I'll catch on. I do know there'll be a lot of guests. Been thinking of having a guy like Casey Stengel or Tom Meany on my first show. Stengel can talk and I've worked with Meany before."

"At least I don't feel like I'm being thrown to the lions like the day I retired. Man, they feed me line after line for the TV cameras. It wasn't my idea. Now take this Sunday morning macaroni show I have locally on NBC—that's a 15-minute show on film. I've done six already and have 20 more to do. But that's on film and if you blow a line, well, you just have a retake."

"It ought to be easy talking about a game after it's over, but I don't know. It's the pre-game stuff I'm worried about, interviewing players and getting to know their records. Jackie Farrell (Yankee TV coordinator) is getting up players' statistics for the show."

"The season opens April 18th in Yankee Stadium. There's talk that they will retire my old uniform (No. 5). It'll be a busy day. I'm really worried."

"Easter Is Key," Voices Durocher Lopez Counting On Team Average

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Are the experts right in picking Cleveland to win the American League pennant this year?

The manager of the Tribe and the manager of the New York Giants, whom Cleveland meets here today for the 16th time this exhibition season, say, "Yes—if."

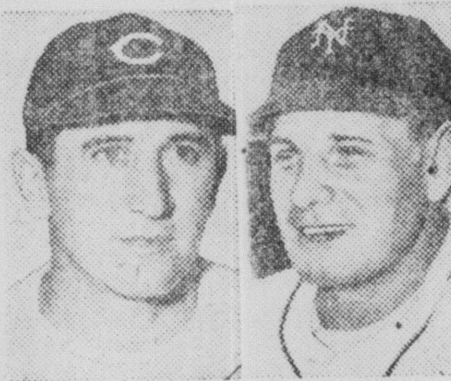

Al Lopez, in his second year as the Indians' pilot, says:

"We've got the pitching. We've got the long ball hitters. All we need is to achieve a better club batting average. Last year I believe, we hit .256. If we hit .270 this season, we'll be the champs."

LEO DUROCHER, manager of the Giants, the Indians' springtime playmates, has watched Cleveland closely both last spring and in the past five weeks. He says:

"You have a very solid club. But it all depends on Big Luke Easter. The Easter I see out there now seems to be enjoying perfect health. As long as he is healthy, the other clubs in your league ought to be pretty sick. But an injury to Luke is like an injury to my guy Monte Irvin. Men like Irvin and Easter you don't replace. You substitute, but you don't replace."

At the end of last season's Indians-Giants barnstorming tour East, Durocher told the Tribe: "So long, see you in October." By one of the greatest stretch drives in baseball history, the Giants got into the October series. But Cleveland faltered in the final three weeks and fell behind the New York Yankees.

Durocher thinks the 1952 Indians are a more solid club than the 1951 Tribe because of improvement in Shortstop Ray Boone, first baseman Easter and centerfielder Larry Doby and because of the addition of Rookie Outfielder Jim Fridley and Veteran Pete Reiser, a strong pinchhitter.

"When you get Pete Reiser, you get a new bench," Lippy said. "The guy can run and hit and hustle. He's the winning type." Leo hasn't seen much of Fridley, who's been playing in only part of the exhibition games. "But what I've seen, I like," he adds. "He's strong — a rough-and-ready guy. He carries a good bat, has a strong arm and slides hard."

LOPEZ' OPINION of Fridley is that "right now he looks as though he has made the ball club as a regular." The Senator says that if Fridley fails to do this, "We won't keep him around. It would be foolish to let him idle on our bench when he could be gaining experience elsewhere."

Tribe manager agrees with Durocher that Reiser "has been a fine acquisition."

But Lopez figures he couldn't "pick any one man who could be called the key to our chances." "Our key is team average," he insists. If we hit .270, we'll win.

Billy Loes May Help Dodgers In '52 After Whipping Yanks

(By The Associated Press)
If his work this spring is any criterion the Brooklyn Dodgers can write off their investment in Pitcher Billy Loes as "paid in full."

Loes is one of baseball's bonus babies. He received $21,000 for signing with Brooklyn in 1949 but until this spring has shown little to merit the outlay.

The 22-year-old right-hander spent 1951 in the Army and according to baseball law cannot be shipped to the Minors without his consent.

Asked recently if he would consent to go to the Minors, Loes retorted:

"I'm consenting to nothing." Loes' adamant stand may turn out to be a blessing in disguise for Brooklyn.

Manager Chuck Dressen has been impressed by the kid's work. "He might win some games for us," Dressen said. "He's been firing the ball hard since his arm lost that stiffness and he has a heck of a curve."

Loes strengthened his case yesterday as he hurled three hitless and scoreless innings against the world champion New York Yankees in the Yankee Stadium.

Ralph Branca entrusted Loes with an 8-2 lead and the young pitcher moved the Yanks down in order until the ninth when he permitted two walks before retiring the side.

The Dodgers clobbered Rookie Harry Schaeffer and two successors for 14 hits in their 9-2 romp. The Brooks stowed the decision away in the first inning when they clipped Schaeffer for three runs.

Loes divided the 1949 season with Nashua and Fort Worth, winning 16 games and losing five. Under the bonus rule in force at the time, Loes was compelled to spend the 1950 campaign with Brooklyn. His log read, 0-0, but he was hit hard in the ten games he appeared.

HERM WEHMEIER, Hank Perkowski and Frank Smith, almost turned in the fourth no-hit no-run game of the spring as they teamed up to pitch the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0, one-hit victory over Detroit at Columbus.

Outfielder Pat Mullin spoiled the bid by cracking a double against Wehmeier in the second inning.

Beside the defeat the Tigers also lost the services of Outfielder Hoot Evers for a month. Evers suffered a broken right thumb in the fourth inning when struck by one of Wehmeier's pitches.

Robin Roberts tuned up for the season's opener by pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-2 triumph over their Baltimore Orioles.

Five years ago—Leslie MacMittell won first running of boardwalk mile at Atlantic City in 4:14.8.

The game went 12 innings before the Giants won 4-3 on Outfielder Chuck Diering's single off George Zuverink. Alvin Dark was on third base through Harry Simpson's muff at first on a toss from Ray Boone, and a single by Bobby Thompson. When Diering connected for his first safe hit in 39 consecutive times at bat, Dark brought home the winning marker.

Dick Wakefield doubled and scored the only Giant run off Wynn by advancing on an infield out and wild pitch. That was in the fourth, and in the fifth the Tribe tied it at 1-1 on Dale Mitchell's single, a misjudged fly and Wynn's roller in front of the plate.

Henry Thompson's homer in the eighth after Bobby Thompson's single broke the deadlock, but in the ninth the Indians tied it at 3-3 on a trio of Giant errors—two by Dark and one by Thompson.

For a while yesterday in Kansas City it looked as though Lemon would be called to hurl ahead of his turn. Early Wynn had a stiff right shoulder, but he managed to do a creditable job for seven innings, limiting the New Yorkers to one run and five hits.

THE "TAG" is a neoprene ring which is simple to operate. Sailfish are never gaffed, but are "billed" instead. The guide grabs the fish by its tough, abrasive snout and removes the hook or cuts the leader. With the advent of neoprene rings, all he has to do now is clip one over the bill before releasing. The ring is locked securely in place by the rough texture of the bill gristle. The fish, of course, is not the least inconvenienced.

Some prophets felt that the gesture was futile, but not long ago a tagged sailfish was released off St. Lucie Inlet. The sail dashed off into the blue waters of the Gulf Stream and then turned up at the bait of a sport trolling 20 miles farther south. This second appearance was two months later—but there he was, a seven-foot, 11-inch bundle of dynamite wearing tag number 333. Isolated as this data may seem, enough of these catches will add up to fact—and better fishing for everybody.

TO KEEP BUSINESS stable, most boats run "make-up" parties which means that two, three, or four anglers split the bill. Your share runs between $30, $20, or $15, depending on how many you want to fish. More than one novice has invested $20 and locked horns with not one—but two or three sailfish.

This locale incidentally, is the "boot" camp for practicing sailfish: The fish concentrate so heavily from Stuart to the Palm Beaches that an average of seven out of every 10 sailfish are released at the end of the fight.

It just isn't cricket to hang one on the dock any more unless the fish is a record. Conservation is a potent word in these parts. The immediate project is tagging released fish so that more can be learned about them. Science can't do much without facts and figures, and getting these depends on everybody who ventures into a sailfish sector.

Big Game Fishing on a Budget

By AL McCLANE

You can be a big-game fisherman for $15 or $20, and if you start your career down at West Palm Beach, the chances are even that you will knock the buttons off a seven-foot sailfish.

A good many people are under the impression that big-game fishing is a rich man's sport, but the average vacation budget will allow a few days on the Gulf Stream, provided you know the setup.

Boats draw an average of $60 per day, which is a low tariff when you realize that the captain has to buy gas, tackle, and insurance, pay a mate's salary and get his own profit from the balance. Allowing an annual haul-out period, and the many days he can't get off-shore because of bad weather, the skipper is not loaded with chips as many observers might lead you to believe.

TV Station Ban Said To Be Lifted Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government sources said today the ban will be lifted Monday on construction of new television stations.

The Federal Communications Commission, which imposed the ban Oct. 1, 1948, had no official statement for immediate publication.

It was reported unofficially, however, that the unfreeze order also would allocate TV channels throughout the nation and set a 75-day period for filing applications for television licenses.

Big Numbers Center Found In Canton

CANTON (AP)—The police vice squad said today it had uncovered one of the biggest numbers clearing houses in the state with the arrest of William Ferguson, 52.

The vice squad, accompanied by state liquor agents, burst in on Ferguson yesterday in his home here.

Vice squad Chief George Rodabaugh said Ferguson admitted that various men made daily pickups of number slips here and took them to Massillon, Alliance, New Philadelphia and as far east as Pittsburgh.

Ferguson goes before Municipal Judge Donald McCarroll today on charges of number writing. He did not possess a federal gambling stamp, police said.

Safety Director Stanley Cnich was asked why liquor agents went along on the raid. He replied that preliminary investigation of Ferguson indicated there "could have been liquor on the premises."

U.N. Infantry Repulses Red Ground Thrust

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantrymen repulsed Red probing attacks all along the 155-mile Korean battle front last night and early today as the ground war flared anew after a two-day lull.

Bad weather grounded U.N. air planes, but naval units Friday night continued a steady hammering of Communist positions on both coasts of the Korean Peninsula.

The Fifth Air Force weekly summary, released today, listed 10 Allied planes lost over Communist territory—none of them to Red fighters.

Four Communist MIGs were destroyed, two probably downed and seven damaged in that time. The Red losses occurred last Sunday—the only day the speedy jets tangled in the week.

Supporting the Red probes begun late Friday, Communist artillery and mortars fired more than 2,000 rounds against United Nations positions. More than half the shells were aimed at U.N. positions on the eastern front above the "punch-bowl."

The most serious Red attack was launched Friday night against U.N. forces entrenched on a hill near the Mundung Valley on the eastern front. The U.N. infantry dropped back, saturated the hill with artillery fire and reoccupied the hill at dawn Saturday.

In at least 10 other places along the front from the Yellow Sea to the Sea of Japan, Communist troops probed U. S. positions, skirmished and withdrew.

The Story Of Easter, (6)

Road To Calvary

The long, sad procession to Calvary started. The events of that journey with Christ carrying His cross among His awed followers, the mocking mob, and the stern Roman soldiers have become part of the Christian story.

Christ was crucified. This was the Roman method of execution for common criminals. Two thieves were executed on crosses placed one on each side of Him. After His death, He was taken down from the cross and His body was placed in a tomb.

But Christ had come to earth as a symbol and a promise. Now was the time for the promise to be fulfilled. When His people came to the tomb they found it empty. They turned away, awed and amazed and later found Christ still among the living. This was the Resurrection.

The Empty Tomb

Eisenhower

before the Washington announcement was made.

An aide said his moving speech brought tears to the eyes of every man there.

The general will leave April 16 for Brussels to begin a series of farewell visits to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization capitals in Europe.

In the United States, delighted supporters of Gen. Eisenhower for President claimed today his return to this country by June 1 will assure him the Republican nomination.

But backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio said Eisenhower's resignation as European defense commander is more likely to help Taft win top place on the GOP ticket.

Sen. Morse of Oregon, an Eisenhower man, said the general's plans to come home and doff his uniform mean "he will be nominated by an overwhelming vote, and then go on to election in November by the greatest majority in many years."

On the other hand, Sen. Young of North Dakota, a Taft supporter, predicted Eisenhower will lose ground in the race for the nomination "as soon as he gets back here and has to take a position on the many controversial issues."

Young added that Eisenhower "will continue to be a very strong contender," but said Taft stands to reap any political benefits resulting from the general's resignation.

Sen. Carlson of Kansas, director of national Eisenhower-for-President headquarters, said the general on his return "will discuss with our people the grave domestic and international problems confronting us."

Sen. Watkins of Utah, who is backing Taft, said that when Eisenhower does that "He will pay the penalty all candidates pay when they take a stand on the issues—he will lose support."

Sen. Young put it this way: "He won't be able to hang on to both the ultra conservatives and extreme liberals among his present supporters. One group or the other is going to desert him."

But Sen. Duff of Pennsylvania, a member of the Eisenhower-for-President board of strategy, said he was "tremendously pleased" that the general is coming home.

"This ought to satisfy all demands," Duff said, "as I am sure what he has to say will be the kind of thing the people have wanted to hear at this time of great crisis in our country's history."

From the Taft camp, Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska noted Eisenhower said last January that "in the absence of a clear cut call to political duty" he would remain in Europe as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces.

"I wonder whether he has received such a call, and—if so—from whom," Butler asked. "It certainly didn't come from Nebraska, Wisconsin or Illinois."

Broadcaster For "Voice" Tries To Kill Himself

NEW YORK (AP)—A one-time prisoner of Yugoslav Titoists was in critical condition today after trying to kill himself, police said, because the Easter Sunday script he wrote for the Voice of America was rejected.

The writer, Anthony Osovnik, 38, is employed by the Voice, the State Department's overseas radio information agency.

Officers said he left a note telling of his dismay at the rejection of the Easter Sunday script. It was to have been a description in the Slovene language of Easter as religiously observed in America, a Voice official said, but it turned out to be a denunciation of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

POLITO SUSPENDED

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—The Struthers civil service commission has overruled Mayor Harold Milligan's firing of Police Captain Nicholas Polito. The commission ordered a 183-day suspension instead. The mayor discharged Polito March 10 on grounds he tried to sell jobs on the police force.

OFFER TO BUY BREWERY

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—Three men have offered $151,250 for the bankrupt Webb Brewery. They said they want to convert it into a dairy and other small business places.

Tracer experiments with radioactive isotopes show that muscles, bones, and even teeth and blood, are in a constant state of breaking down and renewal.
